

Robbins Government Relations Adds Brett Harrell to the Team

This week, Robbins Firm affiliate, Robbins Government Relations, added Brett Harrell, former Georgia House of Representatives member and Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee to its team. Brett Harrell has gained expertise on numerous topics during his tenure in the legislature, including taxation, gaming, alcohol regulation, and lottery. He hails from Gwinnett County, has served as Mayor of Snellville, and has held more Vice Chairman committee positions than most representatives in the House. Brett began his career as an entrepreneur, where he gained experience in how to make payroll, face burdens imposed by all levels of the government, and how to deliver results for clients. He has been elected and appointed as a member of the Snellville Planning Commission, the Snellville City Council, the Georgia Department of Community Affairs Board, the Governor's Congestion Mitigation Task Force, and the Commission for Service and Volunteerism, among others.
