

ROBBINS

Litigation and Regulatory Law

Vincent Russo represents clients in a wide range of complex business disputes, including state and federal litigation involving securities and real estate investments, contract claims, violations of fiduciary duties, trade secrets, derivative actions, and other business torts. Vincent also has over a decade of experience representing clients in highly regulated industries in a variety of government and policy matters, and he is considered an expert in election law and campaign finance in Georgia.

Vincent's practice regularly involves issues at the intersection of law, politics, and public policy. He is the legal counsel for Georgia Governor Brian Kemp's campaign and leadership committee. He has also been appointed as a Special Assistant Attorney General to represent the State of Georgia in various litigation. In recent years, Vincent has been tapped to represent the Governor and the Secretary of State of Georgia in matters before the Committee on Oversight and Reform in the U.S. House of Representatives, including inquiries by the Subcommittee on Civil Rights and Civil Liberties and the Select Subcommittee on the Coronavirus Crisis. He has also represented the NRCC and the NRSC in various election cycles, and previously served as the General Counsel for the Georgia Republican Party.

In January 2019, Vincent was appointed by Governor Kemp to serve as co-Chair of the Judicial Nominating Commission — a 25-member Commission created by Executive Order of the Governor to evaluate and recommend individuals for appointment to the bench. The Fulton County Daily Report selected Vincent as one of 14 attorneys to its "On the Rise" class for 2019, and James Magazine named him as one of Georgia's Most Influential Attorneys. Vincent has also been recognized by Georgia Super Lawyers as one of the top rated Business Litigation attorneys in Georgia in 2020-2023, and as a Georgia Super Lawyers "Rising Star" in Business Litigation in 2017-2019.

Prior to joining the Firm, Vincent was the General Counsel for the Georgia Secretary of State's Office, where he served as the chief legal counsel in the administrations of Brian Kemp and Karen Handel. During that time, he also served as the Assistant Commissioner of Securities for the State of Georgia and oversaw the state's regulation of the securities industry, including investigations and enforcement actions under the Georgia Uniform Securities Act.

Vincent is a graduate of Emory University School of Law, where he was the recipient of the James C. Pratt Memorial Award, selected to the Order of the Barristers, and served as the Director of the Emory Moot Court Society (2005-2006). Vincent earned undergraduate degrees in Economics and Political Science from Louisiana State University and was the recipient of the Chancellor's Medal of Distinguished Service.
